To Whom It May Concern,

It is with genuine pleasure that I write this letter of recommendation for Christle Hart, who is currently seeking a teaching position supporting pupils with Additional Support Needs (ASN) in Scotland. In my role as Assistant Principal at Lister Elementary, I have had the privilege of working alongside Christle in our Learning Resource Centre, and I can say with absolute confidence that she is one of the most skilled, dedicated, and impactful special education practitioners I have encountered.

Christle has a remarkable ability to differentiate learning to meet each pupil's unique needs, strengths, and developmental levels. She designs inclusive, accessible learning experiences that not only align with curriculum standards but also reflect a deep understanding of child development, neurodiversity, and evidence-based practice. She consistently identifies entry points within the curriculum to ensure that every learner can engage meaningfully, regardless of ability or background.

She is also an exceptional advocate for her pupils. Whether through robust contributions to planning meetings, thoughtful engagement with families, or careful progress monitoring, Christle ensures that every child's voice is heard, and every need met. Her professional judgement and child-centered approach result in strong, individualized support that leads to positive outcomes both academically and socially.

In addition to her strengths in teaching and planning, Christle is a natural communicator and collaborator. Her warmth, clarity, and empathy allow her to build trust quickly and maintain open, constructive dialogue with all stakeholders. She is widely respected by her colleagues, who regularly seek her advice and see her as a valued thought partner and a calming, reliable presence within our school.

Furthermore, Christle has a deep understanding of inclusive education and the rights-based ethos central to Scottish education. Her approach aligns beautifully with the principles of Getting It Right for Every Child (GIRFEC) and the values underpinning Curriculum for Excellence. She is highly reflective, always seeking ways to improve practice and ensure equity and dignity for every learner.

Any school or local authority in Scotland would be extremely fortunate to have Christle on staff. She brings a rare combination of skill, integrity, compassion, and professional wisdom that makes a meaningful difference in the lives of pupils, families, and colleagues alike.

Please don't hesitate to contact me should you require any further information about her work or character.

Yours sincerely,

Julie Fuoco
